Dear Sir,

Greetings from the Department of HCG Academics !!!

We are pleased to introduce HCG Cancer Center, KR Road, Bengaluru as center for observer ship in Oral Onco-surgery. Being a high-volume center for Oral Oncology cases, it would be an immense learning for your Oral and Maxillofacial post graduate students. We would like to take this opportunity to invite your students for the Observer ship Program.

HealthCare Global (HCG) Enterprises Ltd. is one of India's leading cancer care provider. With its headquarters in Bangalore, India, it was founded in 1989 by Dr B.S. Ajaikumar, a well-known doctorpreneur. Currently, HCG has an operational capacity comprising 24 comprehensive cancer centers, 5 multi-specialty hospitals, a majority stake in a leading fertility business under Milann fertility centers, and the largest stake in a precision diagnostics platform under Strand Life Sciences. It also has a cancer care center in Kenya, Africa.

HCG functions on a unique business model, known as the "hub-and-spoke model". Hubs are the specialized centers located in the urban areas that are designed for high-end diagnostic and treatment procedures, while spokes are those arrayed around the hubs in tier 2 and tier 3 regions primarily focusing on routine diagnosis and treatment and follow-up care.

With critical treatment modalities like radiation oncology, surgical oncology and medical oncology all under one roof coupled with a full range of diagnostics, radiology and nuclear medicine facilities, HCG is considered to be the one-stop solution for comprehensive cancer care. HCG is one of the few hospitals in India to introduce several high-end technologies like Cyber Knife, True Beam, TomoTherapy H, Radixact System, da Vinci Robotic Surgical System, etc.

The fee for the Observer ship program is Rs. 5,000 per month.

Looking forward to having your students in our Institution for observer ship.

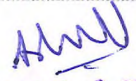

Warm Regards,

Dr. Vandana Bhasin

MODULE

DATE: 6/8/2021

TIME: 12Pm-1pm

Presenter: Dr.Lakshmidevi BL

Types of staining techniques

Sr. No.	Staining Technique	Preparation	Application	Result
1.	Simple (Monochrome)	Smear stain with single dye . e.g. Methylene blue, Safranin etc.	Used to highlight microbes and cellular shapes and arrangements	Organisms are stained in the color of applied stain
2.	Negative (Relief)	Smear mixed with Nigrosin and spread into thin film	Study cell morphology	Organism is stained, the background is black
3	Gram	Primary stain: Crystal violet applied to film then treated with iodine (mordant), alcohol (decolourizer) and counter stained with safranin	Characterizes bacteria in one of two groups, Gram positive or Gram negative	Gram positive appears purple in color Grams negative appears pink in color
4	Acid fast (Ziehl-Neelsen technique)	Film stained with hot Z.N.C.F. decolorized (acid-alcohol) and counter stain with methylene blue	Separate non-decolorized acid fast bacteria that are not decolorized from colorized non-acid fast bacteria	Acid fast bacteria: Red Non acid fast: Blue
5	Endospore (Dornor's method)	Primary stain Malachite green heat fixed to penetrate spores; vegetative cells are counterstained with Safranin	Detects the presence of endospores in six genera of bacteria	Endospores: Green Vegetative cells: Red
6	Capsule A: Hiss method (Positive technique) B: Maneval's technique	Smear stained with Hiss stain following treatment with copper sulphate Bacterial suspension smeared along with Congo red and the Maneval's stain is applied	Capsules can be observed as clear zones surrounding cells of capsulated bacteria and are used to demonstrate the presence of capsules.	Capsule: Light violet/ pale mauve color Bacteria: Purple cell, Stands out against dark

DEPARTMENT OF ORAL PATHOLOGY & MICROBIOLOGY

WORLD NO TOBACCO DAY-31st MAY

GUEST LECTURE

On the occasion of "World No Tobacco Day" Department of Oral pathology conducted a guest lecture on 31/5/2022. Resource person was Dr. Shilpa BJ BDS, MDS Oral Medicine & Radiology, O.C.T.C, C.T.C.S Gujarat university and tobacco cessation specialist Haasan. Topic was "Know More About Tobacco Cessation". Programme started at 11.15 am with introduction by Dr.likitha, invocation song by Toriya, lamp lighting by Principal Dr.Praveen Kudva and Oral Pathology staff, followed by principal speech. Introduction to guest speaker was given by Dr.Shubha followed by guest lecture. Vote of thanks was given by Dr.Kokila. Certificate of appreciation and a memento was given to resource person by Principal.

AGE ESTIMATION BY CEMENTAL ANNULATIONS

DATE: 29/9/2021

TIME: 11.30am-1pm

Presenter name: Dr.Kokila.G

MODULE

INTRODUCTION: Estimation of age is an important aspect in determining a person's identity. Since teeth are resistant to decay and degradation, estimation of age using dental structures may be a valuable tool in human identification. Recent research suggests that tooth cemental annulation could be used as an effective method for age estimation than other morphologic or histological parameters. Cemental annulation by various microscopes improves accuracy in the prediction of age and also it allows for age estimation in cases where skeletal fragments are poorly preserved.

Method

Using a hard tissue microtome, longitudinal and transverse ground sections of 100 μm thickness of each tooth was prepared. Incremental lines of cementum from the prepared longitudinal and cross-sections were then studied using a light microscope, phase-contrast and polarized microscope. Photomicrographs were taken focusing on the cementum of the middle third region of the root using a digital camera OLYMPUS U-CMAD3 under $\times 10$ magnification and were then transmitted from the research microscope (BX41) to a monitor. Each dark band along with the light band following it constituted one annulation. Teeth with indistinct, invisible cemental lines were eliminated. The mid-root section was chosen for counting the annulations for the following reasons: The thickness, width and cellularity of the cementum layers and also the number of resorption areas increase apically, complicating annulation counting. The thinness of the cementum near the tooth's neck prevents scoring. To reduce the influence of factors known to obscure annulations or cause cementum variation, such as periodontal disease and hypercementosis caused by local or systemic disease.

Cementum lines were counted manually by marking a point against each line observed and then counting the number of points marked in total per photomicrograph. For each alternating light and dark band of cementum annulations, a score of 1 was noted and the total number of incremental lines was counted.

Chronological age was estimated using the formula:

Estimated Age = Total number of cementum annulations + Age of eruption of that tooth

The number obtained was then compared with the known age of subjects. A similar procedure was followed using the polarizing microscope and phase-contrast microscope and the same comparative analysis was done.

RESEARCH LAB ACTIVITY

"AGE ESTIMATION BY CEMENTAL ANNULATIONS"

REPORT

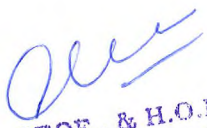

On 29th September 2021 "Research lab activity – age estimation by cemental annulations" was organised by Department of Oral Pathology & Microbiology, Sri Siddhartha Dental College & Hospital, Tumakuru with a lecture and hands on training by Dr.G.Kokila, Prof & Head, Department of Oral Pathology, SSDC, Tumakuru. The programme was attended by twenty six registered participants who also took an active role in the hands on session which was conducted following a lecture. Feedback for the program was collected and all the participants were awarded participation certificate.

"National Oral Pathologist Day"

25th February 2022

REPORT

National Oral Pathologist Day is celebrated on 25th February every year in India to commemorate birthday of renowned oral pathologist Dr. H. M. Dholakia. The speciality of Oral Pathology & Microbiology deals with understanding the cause, nature, characteristics, identification and effects of diseases affecting oral and maxillofacial regions there by facilitating patient management.

The Department of Oral Pathology & Microbiology, Sri Siddhartha Dental College and Hospital, Tumkur celebrated "National Oral Pathologist Day" on 25th February 2021. The program was organised by involvement of 3rd BDS students, which involved students sharing their views and experiences on oral pathology, skit, quiz etc. the winners of various competitions organised for students and staff were awarded with certificate and memento. The competitions organised were – Pictionary, carving video making and quiz on -Oral Pathology in Oral Health Care, Histo-Rangoli, Carving of tooth anomaly for students and Tooth carving for staff. The students participated with great enthusiasm.
