REPORT ON HEPATITIS B AWARENESS AND SCREENING PROGRAMME

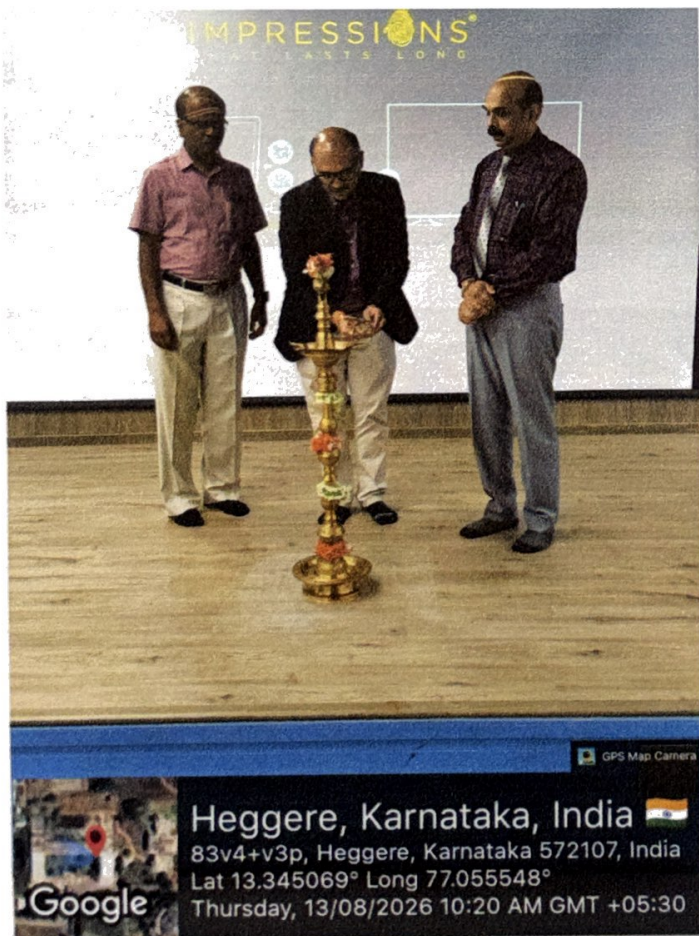

ARN No: SSAHE261618

Date : 14-08-2026

A Hepatitis B Awareness and Screening Programme was conducted on 13th August 2026 at the Savyasachi Auditorium with the objective of creating awareness among dental consultants and healthcare professionals regarding Hepatitis B and C, their modes of transmission, prevention, occupational risks, and the importance of maintaining safe clinical practices.

The programme featured an informative guest lecture by Dr. Ravindra , Dept of Medical Gastroenterology & Hepatology Fortis hospitals, and Meenakshi Institute of Gastroenterology Bannerghatta Road, Bengaluru , on the topic

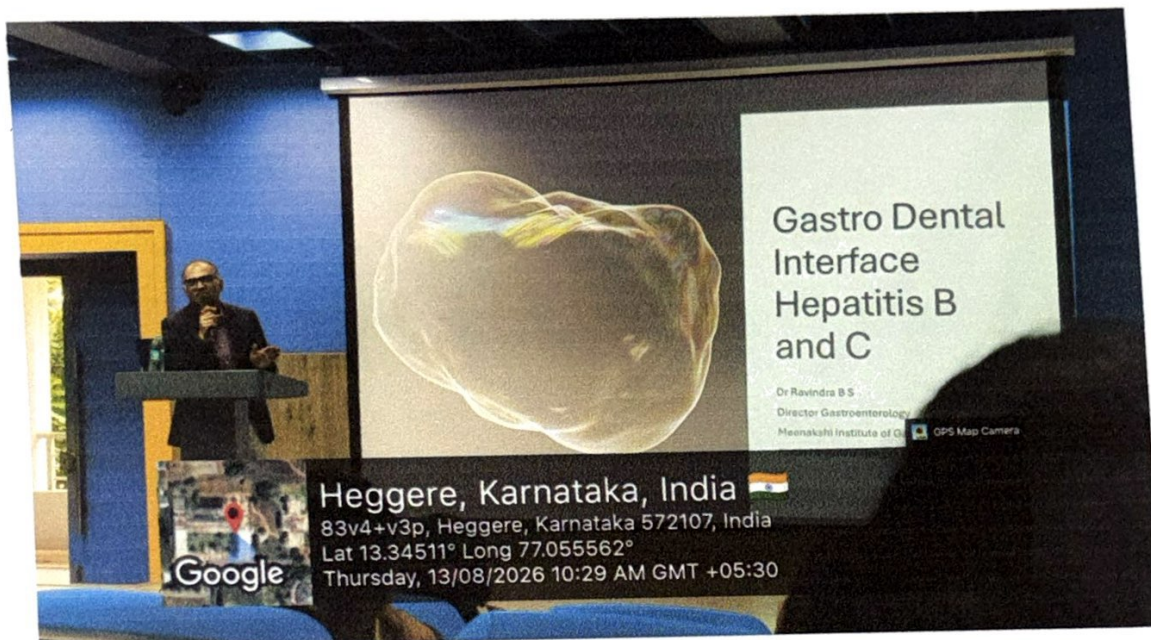

"Safe Hands, Safe Practice: Hepatitis B/C and Liver Disease Awareness for Dental Consultants."

The session focused on the significance of Hepatitis B and C infections in healthcare settings, particularly among dental professionals who may be exposed to blood and other potentially infectious body fluids during clinical procedures.

Dr. Ravindra highlighted the routes of transmission, clinical manifestations, risk factors, preventive measures, vaccination, and the importance of early diagnosis and management of Hepatitis B and C.

Special emphasis was placed on occupational exposure among dental professionals, appropriate infection-control practices, use of personal protective equipment, safe handling and disposal of sharps, and the importance of maintaining standard precautions during dental procedures.

The lecture also addressed the relationship between chronic viral hepatitis and liver disease, emphasising the need for timely antibody titre testing and appropriate medical follow-up. The session served as an important reminder that awareness, vaccination, and adherence to standard infection-control protocols play a vital role in protecting both healthcare professionals and patients.

Following the awareness session, a screening programme for Hepatitis B and Hepatitis C was conducted for all teaching and non-teaching staff, Postgraduates, and Interns. The screening provided an opportunity for individuals to assess their Hepatitis status and were also encouraged to seek appropriate medical consultation and follow-up wherever required.

The programme was well received by the participants and served as a valuable educational initiative towards promoting occupational safety, infection prevention, vaccination awareness, and early detection of viral hepatitis among dental professionals.
